From the Director of Learning and Wellbeing

In 2025, Concordia College will be activating our 'Learning Well' framework. This framework positions our current Instructional Model alongside our new Wellbeing Model to support us in connecting, empowering and challenging our learners.

The new Wellbeing Model describes wellbeing as “the equilibrium between the challenges an individual is facing, and the resources they have to face them”. This can be visualised as a ‘see-saw’, with challenges on one side and resources on the other. When we encounter a challenge in our life (whether it be academic, physical, psychological, social or spiritual), our system of resources and challenges come into a state of imbalance, and we are forced to adapt our resources (whether they be academic, physical, psychological, social or spiritual) to meet the challenge. Our wellbeing ‘dips’ if we are unable to correct the balance, which occurs when we do not have sufficient resources to meet a challenge or when we have insufficient challenge to meet our resources.

This definition and model, adapted from Dodge et al. (2012), has been chosen because it is:

- Simple – it can be easily understood and communicated
- Universal – it applies to all individuals, regardless of age, gender or race
- Agentic – it empowers individuals to take responsibility for their own wellbeing and be active in responding to imbalances
- Useful – it can be used proactively and reactively
- Individualised – it does not present ‘one-size-fits-all’ solutions or approaches
- Inclusive of (and normalises) challenge – it does not discourage challenge or promote avoidance of challenge; it is not healthy to always sit in our comfort zone or avoid discomfort.

The 'Learning Well' framework is designed to help Concordia be a community where individuals are encouraged to be agents of their own learning and wellbeing, rather than leaving it up to a ‘default’ state or assuming it is the responsibility of another party.

The 'Learning Well' framework is shown below. It is built for use in our classrooms and acknowledges the importance that both learning and wellbeing play in producing extraordinary outcomes – during school, and after it.

Q&A with Sarah Davis, ELC Director - St John's Campus

1. Where were you before this and what persuaded you to join Concordia?

Prior to this, I was living in Darwin in the Northern Territory and working at Good Shepherd Lutheran College. I love working in the Lutheran system and so am very excited to be able to join Concordia.

2. Three words to describe you.

Smiley, energetic, caring.

3. What is your motivation or inspiration in your role?

I am passionate about working with children and seeing them grow and develop as they play and follow their interests.

4. If you had a superpower, what would it be?

Speed. I have often been told that I walk really fast, but I can just imagine what I could do and where I could go if I could move like the Flash.

5. Who would you invite to a dinner party of six guests and why? Alternatively, tell us something you might like to share that we could not possibly know?

I would invite my immediate family. They live across a range of states and countries and we don't get to see each other very often, but love catching up when we can.

Upward Psychology Partnership

As part of the activation of the Wellbeing Model in our new 'Learning Well' framework, I am excited to share the College's partnership with Upward Psychology in 2025.

Dr David Scholz, Director and Principal Psychologist of Upward Psychology, will be operating his private practice on-site, and keeping appointments available specifically for the Concordia College community. This will mean that families who are wanting to engage with an external private psychologist will be able to do so, with very minimal wait times.

David is a registered psychologist and a registered teacher, who has worked in schools as a teacher and senior leader for over two decades. After seeing the frustrations many schools and families experience trying to access support, David is now committing his energy and expertise entirely to partnering with schools to provide timely and highly-contextual support to young people by working in direct partnership with their school.

David is able to provide Educational and Psychological Assessments and evidence-based psychological interventions for anxiety, depression, perfectionism, trauma, stress and performance, along with other challenges faced by children, adolescents and their families.

The advantages that this partnership provides for the Concordia community include:

- minimal waiting time for an appointment
- appointments can occur during the school day, meaning assessments and interventions can occur without large disruptions due to pick up and travel time, etc.
- the Psychologist works directly with teachers and school leaders as appropriate, resulting in a greater efficacy of the external support.

Upward Psychology services are engaged privately by families. Enquiries and appointments can be made directly through Upward Psychology using the contact information below:

Student Leader Training Day

Before the start of the school year, our Student Leaders from all campuses got together for a morning of collaboration and fun on the Concordia Campus oval. Testing their problem-solving skills, communication and strategy, our students worked in cross-campus teams to successfully complete a range of fun activities. With a delicious morning tea and lots of time to chat to new friends, it was a wonderful experience for all, which will hold our leaders in good stead for the exciting year ahead!

Welcoming new staff and Student Leaders at our Highgate campuses

Our Concordia Campus Installation Service and St John's Campus Opening Chapel services were wonderful opportunities to install new staff and student leaders and to pray for them as they prepare to serve our community in a range of ways.

Among those installed into new roles were our 2025 Year 12 Student Leaders, House Leaders, Middle School Student Leaders and Year 6 Student Leaders. In a powerful reminder of Concordia's commitment to servant leadership, our Year 12 Student Leaders washed the feet of their Year 6 counterparts. Taking inspiration from Jesus washing the feet of his disciples, this demonstrated that leadership at Concordia is not about avoiding hard work, taking credit for the work of others and placing oneself on a pedestal, it's about serving others faithfully with grace and humility.

Reception to Year 12 Commencement Service 2025

On Friday 31 January, we formally marked the beginning of the school year as one community at our formal Commencement Service. Bishop Andrew Brook brought a message about being the light of the world and the salt of the earth (Matthew 5:13-16) and staff and student leaders were prayed for as they commence their roles for the year ahead.

Remembering Two Cherished Members of Our Concordia Community

With deep gratitude and respect, we acknowledge the passing of two Old Concordians whose lives were marked by service, generosity, and faith.

Rev Dr Elmore Leske (Class of 1940)

We honour the extraordinary life of service of Old Concordian and past Principal Rev Dr Elmore Leske, who passed away on 25 January 2025.

Elmore’s connection with Concordia began in 1940 when he joined as an 11-year-old boarder. He later returned as a teacher and at just 31 years old, was appointed Headmaster. During his eight years of leadership, he introduced significant advancements, including curriculum updates, improved facilities and expanded transport services, all while fostering enrolment growth. His vision and dedication left an enduring legacy of excellence and faith at the College.

Elmore's commitment to the College was also evident through his authorship of our centenary history publication, a book titled 'Concordia 100 Years: Murtoa - Adelaide', which remains an invaluable resource.

Tim Noske (Class of 1985)

With great sadness, we share the passing of Old Concordian Tim Noske, who tragically lost his life on 14 January 2025 at just 52 years of age.

Tim and his family share a long and valued history with Concordia. He successfully operated the family-run Max Noske & Sons Butchery and was known not only for his contributions to the local community but also for his remarkable generosity to the College. Tim was always willing to lend a hand, generously donating meats for countless College events over the years.

His kindness and enduring connection to Concordia will not be forgotten. Tim leaves behind a beautiful young family. Our thoughts and prayers are with them and all who knew him during this heartbreaking time.

We give thanks to God for the lives of these two Old Concordians and find comfort in the words of Matthew 25:21: "Well done, good and faithful servant!"

Australian Business Week

In the last week of Term 4, Concordia College's Year 10 students embraced the challenge of Australian Business Week (ABW), an immersive program that combines teamwork, creativity and critical thinking to simulate running a business.

Throughout the week, students worked in teams, assuming roles such as CEO and Marketing Manager, to create and manage a virtual company. Guided by mentors, they tackled tasks like developing a product, crafting a business plan and navigating real-world challenges using ABW's simulation software.

A highlight of the week was the trade display and presentation day, where teams showcased their businesses. From innovative branding to compelling pitches, students impressed us with their professionalism and creativity.

The week concluded with an awards ceremony recognising exceptional achievements. Team "Second Sun" won the Overall Grand Champion award for their ideas linked to sustainability of surfboards for their product.

ABW aligns with Concordia College's commitment to fostering future-ready learners. The program equips students with practical skills such as problem-solving, leadership, and resilience—preparing them for life beyond the classroom.

A special thank you to the mentors, staff and judges whose support made the program possible.

Programs like ABW inspire our students to dream big and think boldly, and we are excited to see where these budding entrepreneurs will go next!
